

C Skills Guess Questions 2026 - Long Answers

Unit 1

Explain elements of communication

Communication is the process of exchanging ideas and information. Main elements are:

1. Sender – person who gives message.
2. Message – information or idea.
3. Encoding – converting idea into words/signs.
4. Channel – medium like speech, phone, email.
5. Receiver – person who gets message.
6. Decoding – understanding message.
7. Feedback – reply from receiver.
8. Noise – disturbance in communication.
9. Context – situation or environment.

Describe 7 Cs of Effective Communication

1. Clear – message should be easy to understand.
2. Concise – use few necessary words.
3. Concrete – specific facts and examples.
4. Correct – grammatically and factually right.
5. Complete – full information.
6. Coherent – logical order.
7. Courteous – polite and respectful language.

Unit 2

Differentiate between formal and informal communication

Formal communication follows official channel in organization. Example: notice, memo, report.

Informal communication is casual and unofficial. Example: friendly talk, gossip, personal discussion.

Formal is documented and controlled; informal is quick and flexible.

Differentiate between written and oral communication

Written communication uses letters, reports, emails and records. It is permanent and suitable for official work.

Oral communication uses speaking, meetings, phone calls. It is fast and allows immediate feedback but no permanent record.

Role of non-verbal communication

Non-verbal communication means communication without words such as facial expressions, gestures, posture, eye contact and tone. It supports verbal message, shows emotions, builds confidence and improves understanding.

Role of Proxemics

Proxemics means use of space and distance in communication. Personal distance shows relationship and respect. Too close may cause discomfort; proper distance creates comfort and professionalism.

Unit 3

An Astrologer's Day - R.K. Narayan

The story is about an astrologer who earns money by pretending to know the future. One day he meets a man named Guru Nayak and realizes he is the same person he once attacked. Finally he learns the man survived. Themes are fate, guilt and irony.

Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening - Robert Frost

The poet stops near lovely dark woods on a snowy evening. He enjoys nature's beauty but remembers responsibilities. The line 'miles to go before I sleep' means duties remain before rest. Theme is beauty of nature and responsibility.

Unit 4

Transforming active voice into passive voice

In active voice, subject does action: Ram writes a letter.

In passive voice, object receives action: A letter is written by Ram.

Rules:

1. Object of active becomes subject of passive.
2. Use suitable form of be verb.
3. Use past participle of main verb.
4. Add 'by + subject' when needed.

Examples:

She sings a song -> A song is sung by her.

They completed work -> Work was completed by them.
